RUSSIANS PLAN OFFENSIVE
LOSSES TO REDS IMMENSE

SOVIET DEALS WITH POLAND ALONE, REPLY GIVEN BRITAIN

Bolsheviki Are Willing To Withdraw Demand That Enemy Form Militia Of None But Workingmen

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 26.—The Soviet Government, replying to Mr. Balfour's note of August 24, asking if the Soviet proposed to adhere to the peace terms which they desired to impose on Poland and saying that the future policy of the British Government depended on the Soviet's reply), agrees to withdraw the condition demanding that Poland shall establish a civic militia composed solely of workers.

The Soviet reply is a long document of a propagandist character. It describes the Lucerne note of Mr. Lloyd George and Signor Giolitti as a piece of propaganda directed against Bolshevist institutions and as an act of interference in Russian affairs which would justify corresponding action by the Soviet.

CALLS IT CONCESSION

The reply describes the Soviet's proposal for a civic militia in Poland as a concession, inasmuch as it would be a supplementary armed force to the Polish army of 50,000, and it suggests that the attitude of the British Government is dictated by the view that workers must by nature be animated with the doctrine of Bolshevism.

"Although our interpretation of this point of our peace terms is thoroughly justified," continues the reply, "we are nevertheless willing to remove this, the only point of divergence, in order to establish a full understanding regarding the terms of peace with Poland.

NOT AN ULTIMATUM

"The reply declares that the Soviet never considered their terms as an ultimatum and that they have always been willing to discuss them with Poland with whom they are alone treating for peace; "therefore any understanding which may be given in this connection will be given to Poland alone."

"In view of the earnest desire of Russians to attain the important results for the welfare and peace of the world arising from peace with Great Britain," the reply states, "the Soviet is willing to inform the British Government that the Russian Government is resolved to make a concession on this point and will not insist on the clause referring to the arming of a workers' civic militia in Poland, thus securing full agreement with Great Britain."

The remainder of the reply is a defence of the Soviet against the charge of being an oligarchy. The reply declares that all States which have a form of Government different from the Soviet are the true oligarchies.

U. S. NOTE TO POLAND

Washington, August 26.—The State Department admits that a note was sent to Poland on August 21, suggesting that Poland should state her intention to abstain from any territorial aggression against Russia and remain within the boundaries indicated in the Peace Treaty, pending an agreement regarding her eastern frontier.

Informal assurances have now been received from the Polish Government that the armies will not attempt to convert their counter-defensive into aggressive warfare.

HEAVY CASUALTY LIST

London, August 28.—It is announced from Polish official sources that the Bolshevik losses since the battle of Warsaw amount to 107,000 prisoners and 50,000 killed or seriously wounded.

The latest news from Upper Silesia indicates that the Poles are in possession of eight districts, while they have begun to disarm the Security Police in a number of other districts.

It is stated that as a result of pourparlers between Polish workmen in the Plebiscite districts and the Inter-Allied Com-

Polish Air Scouts Bring Reports Of Preparation For New Offensive

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 28.—While the Polish communiques continue to report additional successes and captures of prisoners, the German wireless states that Polish aviators have ascertained that a fresh Russian offensive may be expected within a few days. Heavy movements of Russian troops are declared to have been observed in the direction of Brest—Litovsk.

The Moscow wireless, also asserts that the Red army is pulling itself together, cheered by mobilisation at Petrograd.

SOVIET'S OFFICERS CALL LOSSES GERMAN DEFEAT

(Reuter's Service)

WARSAW, August 27.—The Inter-Allied Commission in Upper Silesia has obtained possession of documents, proving that the German Government actively participated in the recent disorders in Upper Silesia. It appears certain that the German organisation, which prepared the acts of violence against Allied troops, was morally and materially assisted by the Berlin Government.

Captured Bolshevik officers openly state that they regard the recent military disasters in Poland as a great German defeat and that Soviet Russia had no interest in the invasion of Poland or the Dantzig corridor but that it was in response to the desires of the Germans that the Bolsheviki advanced along the East Prussian frontier. They say that they are now paying the penalty of their blind confidence in German counsels.

POLAND'S REPLY TO U. S.

Warsaw, August 28.—The Government communicates the text of the declaration, made by the Polish delegation at Minsk on August 19, the transmission of which has been delayed.

The Poles maintained that war was imposed upon Poland by the action of the Soviets, which, after imposing a Soviet regime in White Lithuania and Ruthenia, advanced against ethnographic Polish territory with the clear object of marching on Warsaw and imposing Sovietism on Poland.

The Polish Republic was therefore compelled to resist the Bolshevik invasion and occupied former Polish territories, not with any Imperialist object but in view of the right of self-determination of peoples.

SINCERELY DESIRE PEACE

The declaration points out that the Poles have never touched really Russian soil while the Soviets, taking advantage of the weakness of Poland, have invaded purely Polish territories, menaced Warsaw and issued proclamations announcing the introduction of the Soviet regime into Poland in spite of the protests of the Poles. The declaration concludes, emphasising that Poland sincerely desires peace on condition of non-interference with her internal affairs and that she herself does not intend to interfere with the internal affairs of others.

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

The Japanese note says: "Since the Presidential Mandate ordering the arrest of the Anfu refugees was issued on political grounds and since the right of asylum was given to these refugees as political offenders, the Japanese Legation is not in a position to comply with the request for extradition irrespective of any offense which the refugees may be charged with now."

He left for Hangchow yesterday afternoon to consult the Military Governor there and other executive officials. It is not yet officially announced when he will take over his office. Mr. Nyi Zau-tsung, former secretary of the local Bank of Communications, is acting as Mr. Chao's private secretary.

The new director is a native of Chinghua, Chekiang Province and a man in his prime. He is known as a man of exceptional executive ability and a great organiser and one of the best experts in railway affairs. In fact, the present success of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway was due to the ground work done by him in 1914 when he was the managing-director of the line.

HAD EARLY TRAINING

Mr. Chao graduated from the Diocesan School, Hongkong. In 1890 and from the Telegraph College, Canton in 1892. He became director of various telegraph offices in Kwangtung province, and in 1898, was assistant secretary to Mr. C. W. Kinder, engineer-in-chief of the Peking-Mukden Railway. In 1900, he became secretary to Mr. D. J. Bourne, chief engineer to Messrs. S. Pearson and Son, Contractors of Taokow-Chinghua Railway 1900, and Contractors of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway who brought 2,000 skilled laborers from Taokow-Chinghua Railway, Honan province and undertook the great earth work at Woosung and Shanghai workshop at Woosung and laid the track from Shanghai to Nanzing, 1906-1907.

Later, Mr. Chao was appointed secretary-auditor to Mr. Tong Shao-yi, Director General of Railways.

DIRECTED RAILWAYS

In 1910, Mr. Chao was made secretary and chief translator to Mr. Liang Shih-yi, director general of railways, Board of Communications and managing-director of Canton-Kowloon Railway who made the working agreement with the Hongkong Government for the Chinese and British section. In 1916, he served as manager of the Bank of Communications and resumed the specie payment for the bank.

Mr. Chao was appointed director of the Sequestered German and Australian River vessels and wharves along the Yangtsze River in 1917. For his services the 3rd Grade Wenho and the 3rd Grade Chiao-ho have been conferred on him. He was also councillor to the late President Feng Kuo-chang and President Hsu Shih-chang.

Government Stands Firm In Refusal To Free Official Because Of Hunger Strike In Spite Of Women's Picketing

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 28.—Mr. Redmond Howard has resumed his campaign on behalf of Mr. MacSweeney and has telegraphed to the Queen stating that the Lord Mayor of Cork has one lung affected and begging Queen Mary's co-operation in the attempt to save him. Mr. Howard is also appealing to the Lord Chancellor and Sir Edward Carson.

POLICY UNCHANGED

London, August 26.—With regard to Mr. Redmond Howard's appeal to the King for clemency for the Lord Mayor of Cork and others who are in a gave condition from hunger striking in prison, it is understood that, owing to the nature of the case, His Majesty consulted his Ministers, as he would not exercise his prerogative of clemency without so doing.

It is declared this evening that the Government's policy is unchanged. This is regarded, apparently, as disposing of Mr. Howard's appeal.

The official view is that the Lord Mayor's offense is too grave to justify his release merely because he has refused food.

STRIKERS EAT HEARTILY

Meanwhile, it is reported that a party of hunger-strikers, whilst being transported to London from Queenstown in a destroyer, were provided with and ate a hearty dinner.

Reuter's New York correspondent telegraphs that a number of women yesterday picketed the British Consulate-General as a protest against the imprisonment of the Lord Mayor of Cork. The police did not interfere.

Wen Tsung-yao and Chen Chin-tao are still at Canton, in spite of reports of their departure.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, August 25.—The United States Shipping Board has authorised increases in freight rates for water transport of from 20 to 40 percent and in passenger charges of from 20 to 33 percent. The increases affect both coastal and lake shipping.

London, August 26.—The Daily Telegraph New York correspondent telegraphs:

Americans are becoming fearful lest any attempt to carry out the Jones Shipping Act should force a retaliatory alliance upon Great Britain and Japan.

It is expected that any attempt to apply discriminatory rates would be met by France, Great Britain and Japan with a rate-cutting war in which America would not be able to complete.

It is freely predicted that the Merchant Marine Bill will be amended by next Congress.

The communique confirms the announcement that the Bolsheviks in the north-west of Persia have resumed the offensive and forced the Cossacks to abandon Resht, the latter suffering heavy losses.

Freedom Of Speech Lost By Russians

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 28.—In an exhaustive report with reference to their recent visit to Russia, the British Labor delegation emphatically contradict the statements of the prevalence of crime, disorder, deaths from starvation etc. They declare that, although social equalisation is far from complete, glaring inequalities in fortune no longer exist.

The delegation praises the systematic efforts of the Soviet Government to improve the social and economic conditions of the people but question whether too heavy a price has not been paid for these advantages as, they point out, freedom of speech and of the press has been totally abolished.

The delegation believe that attacks against Russia in the West will result in the spread of Bolshevism in Persia and the East.

AUTHORITIES SKEPTICAL

London, August 26.—While some continental correspondents are featuring possibilities of the formation and equipment of a fresh Bolshevik army for a new offensive against Warsaw, it is clear this evening that neither the British nor the French military authorities entertain such an eventuality.

It must be remembered that the Polish captures exceed 70,000 men and a further 60,000 have been disarmed in German territory while the war material, including 300 guns, of these forces, has fallen into Polish hands.

The official weekly-military review declares that the Polish counter-offensive has been completely successful. The Red armies are retreating in disorder from the Russian frontier to the Upper Bug.

THREE DIVISIONS SURRENDER

The Polish Northwest army has reached the line Mlawa-Przasysz-Ostrolenka-Lomza, completely cutting off the Bolshevik Fourth army between Warsaw and Thorn. Three divisions of this army have surrendered with their divisional staffs and also the Fourth army's staff, while two divisons and a cavalry corps are now surrounded east of the Vistula. Further Polish troops have arrived at Strasburg and Soldau, closing the last loophole of escape to the Red right wing.

The main Polish blow, under Marshal Pilsudski's personal direction, operating to the north between Ivangorod and Cholm, was a complete surprise. Here the Poles advanced 75 miles on a front of 125 miles in four days, while since August 20 the advance has been even more rapid, making a total depth of advance of over 120 miles in eight days.

LEMBERG ATTACK FAILS

To the South, the Bolshevik attack upon Lemberg was frustrated, the Polish counter-attacks compelling the enemy to retreat northwards.

The Soviet army in ethnographical Poland comprised 21 divisions, of which six have been entirely destroyed, eight have lost 50 percent of their strength, and the remaining seven have suffered heavily and are rapidly disintegrating.

Warsaw, August 26.—Today's Polish communique states that in Eastern Galicia the Poles, pursuing the Bolsheviks south of the Dniester, have repulsed, surrounded or captured all Bolsheviks reaching the right bank of the river. The Poles have captured an entire brigade of 4,000 men in the region of Horodenka.

BOLSHEVIKI LOSE GUNS

Warsaw, August 27.—The extent of the Bolshevik defeat may be gauged by the fact that it is estimated that the Poles have captured two thirds of the Bolshevik guns.

General Weygand, in the course of an interview, said that he hoped that the Reds would not have sufficient forces to attack Poland again, although there were immense resources in vast Russia. General Weygand added that the situation at present was reassuring, for the Soviet had concentrated all their available man-power on the attempt to capture Warsaw.

Later.—The Poles have captured the fortress of Osowiec. This is regarded as proof of the absolute demoralisation of the Reds on the Northern front. It will be remembered that during the war, all the German attacks failed against the Osowiec forts, surrounded as they are by marshes.

The German Government will also insist that the war materials which were handed over by Germany to the Entente should not be used by the latter in assisting Poland in her struggle against Soviet Russia.

Dead Hero's Mother Honored On U.S. Ship

New York, August 27.—The U. S. S. Cole, recently returned from Memfico, Palestine, the Bosphorus, Corinth Canal, the Dardanelles, and points east, had the unique distinction of serving as a reviewing ground, her officers said.

Proceeding from Constantinople to the Adriatic, the destroyer dropped anchor in Cattaro Bay, Montenegro, and elaborate ceremonies were arranged in connection with presenting a Congressional medal of honor, the highest award the United States can bestow to a Jugo-Slavic mother of a member of the A.E.F. killed in France.

The ship was dressed, a decorated cutter sent ashore, and the mother brought aboard. The dignified and impressive ceremony, usually associated with the idea of an entire army corps drawn up in review before the commanding general, was then gone through. After the posthumous award of the decoration, the tearful woman thanked the crew and officers for their courtesy and went back to her little home marvelling at the far-reaching memory of the distant "God's Country" for which she had sacrificed her boy.

U.S. Court Adopts New Way To Deal With Drink Victims

How to deal with convicted drunkards in court without penalising dependent wives and children may have been solved through a novel course that was adopted yesterday by United States Commissioner F. J. Schul in a case that came before him for hearing in the American Consular Court.

The defendant, charged with being drunk and disorderly, had an altercation with a ricsha coolie on Astor Road on the morning of August 28 and after he had knocked the coolie down he turned upon Chinese Constables Nos. 592 and 619 and Sikh Constable No. 321 when they sought to restrain him. All three of the constables were sent to hospital as a result of the beating that the defendent administered before he was overcome by a foreign officer. When this series of encounters was described yesterday at the hearing the defendant said he remembered nothing at all about them and was unable to deny that he had been drunk. Commissioner Schul on questioning the man learned that he had two children and a wife, who is ill and dependent upon him for support.

In conformity with the requirements of the law the Commissioner sentenced the man to serve a term of sixty days in jail and having done this he turned to the prisoner.

"This sentence," he said after explaining the gravity of the case, "will be suspended and you will be permitted to return to your work on the condition that you will take oath not to touch liquor for one year." The Commissioner told the man he should not take the oath unless he felt he could keep it and warned him that if he were brought into court again an extreme sentence would be imposed.

The defendant was freed after he had taken the pledge.

ONLY GOOD HORSES SUIT THE BELGIANS

Germans Complain At High Standards Set By Supervising Commissions

ADMIT LIVESTOCK IS POOR

But Make Progress In Delivery Of Animals To France And Belgium

New York, July 18.—Partial confirmation from German sources of reports recently received from France telling of the poor quality of the cattle being delivered to France and Belgium by the German Government under the modified terms of the Peace Treaty is found in a Berlin despatch of June 2, printed in the Frankfurter Zeitung giving details of the progress being made in turning over the livestock question. In the course of a complaint regarding the extraordinarily high standards being set by the French and Belgian officials supervising the acceptance of the animals it is said:

"The condition of the German cattle has been so reduced through the wartime policy of getting out everything possible at the least expense—as is sufficiently evidenced by the light weight of cattle for slaughtering and the very low production of milk still obtaining—that in many districts it is absolutely impossible to furnish the quality demanded by France and Belgium. Particular complaints have been made to the German Government regarding the Belgian demands for horses. Out of lots of horses from the best breeding regions of the Rhineland the Belgian commissions have rejected 27 percent, 49 percent and 58 percent, and in Dortmund one lot of 239 horses was rejected in its entirety."

Despite these handicaps, however, the report said that great progress was being made in delivering the livestock and that, although the French and Belgian commissions had not arrived in Germany until the end of March, the number of animals accepted by June 1 was as follows: Horses—to France 6,784 of the 30,500 called for by the agreement, to Belgium 2,673 of 10,200; cows—to France 40,492 of 92,000, to Belgium 42,338 of 92,000; sheep—to France 65,916 of 100,931, to Belgium 28,923 of 35,269; goats—to France 7,661 of 10,000, to Belgium 5,760 of 10,000; poultry—to Belgium 28,251 of 35,000.

The speeding up in deliveries during May is largely attributed to the big increase in the prices paid by the German Government to its farmers and breeders for the livestock needed. This rise, which the Deutsche Tageszeitung jubilantly ascribed to the activities of Deputy Dr. Roesicke, President of the Agrarian League, brought the price of one and one-half year old fillies up to 14,000 marks, of those two and one-half years old to 18,000, and of mares in their prime to 25,000. The price of 36,000 marks for stallions remained unchanged. Milch cows and young cattle were raised to 2,520 marks, sheep to 800 and goats to 650 marks. Rams remained at the old rate. The new rates were made retroactive, so that the breeders who had already supplied some animals also benefited by the advance. At the present rate of exchange a German mark equals about 3½ cents.

Much dissatisfaction is expressed by the German cattle raisers at what they call the low maximum prices fixed by the Government for the sale of their stock on the hoof for slaughtering. Under these rates, which stand until July 31, cattle bring from 240 to 420 marks per hundredweight, according to quality; calves under three months, 450; hogs, 350, and sheep from 240 to 400 marks.

When the crash came in the German leather and shoe market, due largely to the refusal or inability of the public to pay the exorbitant prices demanded and the temporary export ban on foot-gear issued by the Government, prices for hides had reached figures in some cases twenty-five times as high as those obtaining last Fall when the close control of the leather market was lifted. Raw cowhide had risen from 1.60 marks a pound to 39.60 marks, raw calfskin from 2.50 to 98.65, raw horsehide from 40.50 to 1,985 a piece, sole leather from 10.50 a pound to 160 and upper leather from 3.15 to 70 per square foot.

While the national Government has done little toward actually arresting and trying the leaders of the reactionary Kapp revolt of March 15, the Socialists in the People's Council of the newly organized German State of Thuringia recently forced through a measure providing for the creation of a special disciplinary court for the Reuss district to try all State officials and employes who had taken part in the Kapp coup. This move was violently opposed by the other members of the legislative body and the press in general, but the Socialists justified their action by declaring that some of the regular court Judges had been involved in the reactionary uprising themselves.

Patients are divided into three classes in the scale of minimum prices fixed by the Medical Society in Hamburg at a general meeting held in June. A consultation (even over the telephone) costs members of the first class 20 marks, of the second 15 and of the third 10; a visit costs 25, 18 and 12 marks, respectively; the rates for confinement cases are 1,000, 400 and 200 according to class; while children's vaccinations cost 40, 20 and 12. Double rates obtain from 7 to 10 p.m. and on Sunday, while calls made between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. cost triple. The first class of patients includes well-to-do persons; the second, Government officials and employes and small business men and artisans, and the third the mass of the workers.

Beginning August 1, all survivors of German soldiers who fell in the World War are to receive a material increase in their national pensions. Under the coming rates a widow without children will receive 140 marks a month, a widow with one child 210 marks, etc. Although the new rates are far below the amount necessary to maintain a decent standard of life the Central Association of German War Invalids and Survivors welcomes the act as an indication that its campaign for better care for the victims of the war is finally getting results.

Through the explosion of the Stolberg fertiliser plant near Aix-la-Chapelle, resulting in the death of several persons, the attention of the German public has been directed to the fact that many fertiliser manufacturers are taking big chances and using salvaged war munitions as the basis for the products. The clamor raised over this discovery has brought action by the authorities to run down all such cases and punish the reckless manufacturers.

The German Ministries of Finance and of the Interior have agreed upon an arrangement unifying the charges for pass-ports, and fixed the rates for the necessary papers to go abroad at 25 marks and for passes for home travel at 15. The latter are not required by law, but are sometimes carried as means of identification. Vises cost from 15 to 30 marks.

From September, 1919, the price of 50 kilograms of hops in Nuremberg, Bavaria, rose from a range of from 626 to 823 marks to one of from 7,100 to 7,250 in March, and then dropped to from 5,250 to 5,750 in June, reports the Vorwaerts of June 24. The last price amounts to about $1.40 a pound.

SUMMER AND THE BABY.

Hot Weather Perils And How To Avert Them

The summer months are the most dangerous to infants and young children. Cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly during the hot season that often the little one is beyond aid almost before the parents realise he is ill. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy. Read what Mrs. W. S. Bassam, of Kingston, Ontario, says about them.

"I began using Baby's Own Tablets when my little girl was about three months old," Mrs. Bassam writes. "At that time the child had indigestion badly. She was vomiting and had diarrhoea constantly. Food did her no good and she was very thin.

"I did not find any medicine to help until we tried Baby's Own Tablets; then the vomiting and diarrhoea ceased and she began to improve almost at once. Since then whenever her stomach is out of order we give her the Tablets and the result is always all that we desire. They are the very best medicine I have ever used for a child."

Baby's Own Tablets can be had of druggists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

VARDON-RAY TEAM WINS AT FOX HILLS; BRITONS DEFEAT BOYD AND FOTHERINGHAM IN MATCH

Englishman Puts Up New Professional Record For Course With Card Of 67; Bad Light And Storm Interfere With Game

New York, July 33.—Those two Staten Island golf professionals, Tom Boyd, the Irishman, and George Fotheringham, the Scot, tried this combination of mixed nationalities on a couple of Englishmen yesterday, but came out second best. Boyd and Fotheringham had seen Jim Barnes take Ray's measure at Shawnee, and it looked so easy that they got their heads together and decided to try their luck on the Fox Hills Golf Club links. It was one thing for them to pick on Harry Vardon, because Harry has a crippled left thumb for the present. But they failed to reckon with big Ted Ray. Because of this oversight Vardon and Ray won their second exhibition match of the series by 9 and 7, a wide margin even at thirty-six holes.

To date therefore, Vardon's record is without a blemish, whereas Ray has his defeat at Shawnee to explain. Vardon, however, has not proved himself to be the golfer that Ray is, at least since landing in America, although due excuses must be offered on account of his thumb. It was mostly Ray yesterday, especially in the afternoon round, with Vardon merely playing the role of a dutiful partner.

Yesterday's match was a reminder of the golf-by-night experiment tried out several weeks ago up at Cornwall. The only equipment missing was the searchlights, for there was plenty of darkness. After a false start in the afternoon on account of the thunderstorm, the pair finally got off, followed by several hundred grown-ups who had been nicked for $2 a look at the great golfers and by an equal number of barefooted urchins who had hopped fences to get into the course. By the time the fifteenth hole was reached half the spectators had melted away, although it was suspected they had sought the clubhouse veranda to escape the reappearance of the storm.

NEAR OURSE RECORD

At the sixteenth it was too dark to see the flag, and on the seventeenth some one was calling for safety matches. It might have been Ted Ray, for, due solely to the blackness of the late afternoon, Ray missed hanging up a new course record. A three on the home hole would have broken the mark, and a four would have tied it. Ray took a five for a 67, but it's a wonder he didn't take fifteen strokes on this hole. He couldn't see the flag and could hardly distinguish between fairway and rough. As it was, Ray's 67 is a new professional record for the course, if one concedes him a few certain putts which he did not hole out when Vardon had won the holes. Boyd had held it with 69, and Vardon tied this in the morning round. The Fox Hills amateur mark is 66, made several years ago by A. F. Kammer and attested by A. H. Pogson, his playing partner at the time.

Things went swimmingly for Boyd and Fotheringham for the first two holes, because they succeeded in halving them, but starting on the third the brakes slipped and the Staten Islanders began to skid with considerable speed. At the turn Vardon and Ray were 3 up. Ray had played par 3 on the fourth hole for a win, but had wandered astray on the fifth for one of the two sixes he took during the morning. He put his tee shot into rough, slammed his second over the green into a trap, was short on his pitch-out, and then finally missed a putt. But Ray was there with both feet during the pinches. Although Vardon had a 69 for the round to Ray's 71, both won two holes outright.

Ray took his morning playing very much to heart after the rain had stopped and he was able to start out for the afternoon. After a few holes it began to look as though his round was to be twittering and chirping with birdies and eagles. Ray had no "cuckoos." His first hole was a sample of what was coming regularly thereafter. He took a birdie 3 sinking an eight-foot putt to do it, while the three others had to be satisfied with fives. He won the third outright with a par 3, and then was the only one of the quartet to reach the fourth green, an even 500 yards from the tee, on his second. Here he got a birdie 4, but had to divide the honors with Fotheringham, who had chipped dead to the pin and took one putt. Vardon and Ray won the short fifth, each taking a three to their opponents' fours. Vardon played the hole according to regulation—drive to the green and two putts. Ray was short, his chip over-ran the cup by fifteen feet and then he sank his third from this distance while the spectators sent up a chorus of "ah's" and "oh's."

Fotheringham got a birdie on the seventh, chipping his second to four feet from the pin and holing out. This won the hole, and his partner, Boyd, did his best to capture the next when he drove the green and went down for a three, but Ray nonchalantly holed a nine-footer for the half. The ninth was halved, putting the English pair two up for the round and eight for the match.

THE FINISHING TOUCH

Likewise, the tenth was halved, and then came Ray's finishing touches to put the match safely away. The Fox Hills eleventh, nicknamed the Dixie hole, is 449 yards long, with two wide terraces between the tee and green. Ray was the only one again to gain the green on his second, and when Boyd saw this he thought so little of his chances as to pick up and let George do it. The necessary ten-foot putt which stared Ray in the face never troubled him. He holed it almost with his eyes shut, getting a three, two strokes under par.

Actually this ended the match, 9 up and 7 to play, but two stories more must be told. In fact, it was a good thing that the bye holes were played out. On the twelfth Ray drove the blind green, which lays behind a high hill over which the drives must be played. His was the only tee shot to gain the green, and he straightaway sank a fourteen-footer for the 2.

Honors for the longest putt of the day belong to Boyd, who got a fine three on the par 4 fifteenth as dark clouds were screening all light from the course. Boyd's second was on the edge, and he holed a putt that spectators could not agree within twenty feet of its distance. In the absence of a tape measure it went officially as a thirty-footer.

WILHOIT HEADS LIST OF BATTERS

He And Bills Are Premier Stick Artists Of The Shanghai Club

BY VIOLA VERCLAIRE

Wilhoit and Bills are the premier stick artists of the Shanghai baseball aggregation this year on the showing for the season. Both played in 19 games and out of 69 times at bat Wilhoit is credited with 25 hits while with six time less at bat Bills scored 22 hits, giving Wilhoit an average of .360 and Bills .348. Gray heads the list with .444, but played in but four games with four hits in nine times at bat.

'Big Six' Claire heads the list in the pitching division for the Tientsin series. Of the three games he pitched he won two and tied in the third. Bane of the Fifteenth Infantry has a record equally good. He pitched four games losing one, giving him an average of .750.

Great American Is Won By Touch-Me-Not By Neck

In Spectacular Finish Greentree Stable's Colt Leads The Way Home

Aqueduct, N. Y., July 3.—With at least half a dozen horses crowding upon each other in a spectacular finish that was full of thrills for some 20,000 spectators, the Greentree Stable's Touch Me Not, a fleet but erratic colt, captured the Great American at Aqueduct yesterday, leading home a field that contained the best two-year-olds that have been sent to the post anywhere in this country this season. This son of Colt and Dainty Dame gained the decision by a neck from Harry Payne Whitney's Broomspun, while R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Dimmesdale, which had been undefeated until that time, was third among the ten starters.

Racegoers could not ask for more excitement than they got in the last few strides of this race, for there came near being a tragedy at the very finish. A. K. Macomber's The Bohemian, which had shown such remarkable speed in his private trials that he was installed favorite in this field of stars, slipped and fell within ten feet of the wire, and his rider, Jose Rodriguez, narrowly escaped very serious injury if not death.

The horse actually slid over the finish line, while Rodriguez was hurled onto the turf just inside the inner rail, where he landed unhurt except for some minor bruises. He was fortunate in that he was thrown between two of the upright posts that support the rail. His head just missed one of these. The boy was able to walk back to he jockeys' room, and the horse received no injuries from his fall.

COULD NOT HAVE WON

The Bohemian was in third place when he fell, but less than a length from the leader. He was a beaten colt, however, and would probably have lost third place, as Dimmesdale was but a nose back of him and running stronger than any other horse in the race.

The other feature of the day was the Brookdale Handicap at a mile and a furlong, which was won by Willis Sharpe Klamer's sturdy performer, Exterminator, which defeated S. C. Hildreth's Cirrus. The Redstone Stable's Gladiator was third and Johnny Dundee's War Mask last of the small field. These events served to bring out a large crowd despite the threatening weather, and as the sky cleared during the day the conditions were ideal except that the track was muddy from the heavy rains of the night before.

Though the five-furlong dash in the Great American brought together nearly all the topnotchers in the juvenile division, it did not settle the question of supremacy in the division. It was so badly run and so filled with mishaps that the majority of the spectators were left in doubt as to which of the half dozen best in the field is entitled to the most consideration in future events.

Touch Me Not may prove to be the best of his age, but Dimmesdale would apparently have been the winner in a few more strides after he had overcome interference in the stretch run. The winner, however, is entitled to much credit, for he proved he was just as fast as his morning workouts indicated he was. In his two previous starts at Belmont Park this colt had acted badly at the post and had run out in the course. He was thus defeated on each occasion by Tryster. He had evidently learned something in his workouts for he ran straight and true yesterday and there is no question that he had a world of speed.

The Bohemian seems to be an unfortunate young race horse. He has twice met with accidents. At Jamaica he lost his rider after being interfered with soon after the start in the Youthful Stakes. He was made a 9 to 5 favorite yesterday and very well supported, but there was also plenty of support for the other logical contenders, as it was considered a very open race.

Touch Me Not broke from next to the outside position and at once joined the first flight of horses, which included The Bohemian and Sporting Blood. Dimmesdale was away well from the rail position and was up in the first flight when he was pinched off slightly just before reaching the turn at the elbow.

SLIPS THROUGH AN OPENING

The Wilson racer made up for this disadvantage when the field went wide at the turn into the straightaway and left him an opening on the rail, through which Turner took him. In the meantime Touch-Me-Not, Broomspur and Sporting Blood were pacing with The Bohemian close up.

It seemed to be anybody's race until the horses had gone half way through the stretch, when Dimmesdale moved up strongly on the inside and came abreast of Touch-Me-Not, which was a neck in front of the other contenders. The rush of the Wilson colt was interrupted a sixteenth from the finish, when the others swerved over toward the rail and Turner was forced to take up and go to the outside of the bunch. This interference probably cost the Wilson colt his chance to win. He moved up with great courage and made up nearly two lengths in the short distance, but he did not have far enough to go to catch the leaders.

The Bohemian had gotten over to the rail, where the track was wet and slippery, and was running closely bunched with Sporting Blood, Broomspun and the winner. It was with this bunch scrambling for the lead as they dashed past the stands that the crowd was suddenly surprised to see one of the horses go down. There had been cries for The Bohemian all through the stretch run, and there was a wave of sighs as he was seen to fall. Sporting Blood had bumped into him slightly in the scramble, and the colt slipped on the wet track and went down, his rider being thrown several feet into the infield. Fortunately, no other horses were directly back of The Bohemian, and the accident was not complicated.

FIRST THREE BUNCHED

Touch-Me-Not had his head in front at this point, while Broomspun was right at his side and Dimmesdale was moving up with bounds on the outside. Less than a length separated first and third horses. Sporting Blood was checked by his impact with the fallen favorite, and the others were too far back to suffer from the interference. The race was run in 0:59-5.

BARRY WINS IN SCULL BY STYLE

Super-Neat Wrist Work Is Responsible For Victory Over Strength

(Reuter's Service)

Sydney, August 28.—Over the famous Parramatta course here Ernie Barry of Twickenham won back the world's professional sculling championship from A. D. Felton, the young Australian exsoldier, to whom he lost the championship over the Putney-Mortlake course last year.

Barry won by 12 lengths.

Sydney, August 27.—The veteran Ernie Barry's victory over A. D. Felton for the World's Professional Sculling Championship, is the most striking indication of the supermastery of style over brute force.

The contest was a contest of skill and experience against strength and youth.

Barry, with his slight build, is anything but a typical strong man, while Felton is a brawny young giant who, though no mean sculler, is nothing like as finished an artist as Barry, who has super-neat wrist work, and a long smooth gliding stroke.

Both men were in fine condition. Betting was in favor of Barry.

FOUR OUT OF FIVE PRIZES WON BY JAPANESE IN BRITISH .303 RIFLE CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST

R. I. Ito Who Won "D" Class Grand Aggregate In 1919 Holds Lead Through Third Stage Of Tournament; Noisshiki Finishes In Second Place

The third stage of the British .303 Rifle Championship was shot on Monday morning at 6 o'clock. The weather conditions were good except that at 1,000 yards the wind was very tricky. After firing at 900 yards Ito topped the list with 71 points followed by Iijima also with the same score.

At 1,000 yards Rose and Kawanami topped the list with 64 each followed by Ito with 60 and Hoh 59. Adding the total of this stage with those of 1st and 2nd stages combined Ito won the championship with 313 points (6 points below last year). Noisshiki and Kawanami were tied for the second place with 305 each. The former won in the shoot-off. Iijima was fourth with 298 and Hodges fifth with 293.

It is creditable for the Japanese to win four prizes out of five and they won also the prizes for the 1st and 2nd stages.

R. I. Ito is to be congratulated for his excellent performances since he joined the S.R.A. last year. In 1919 he won the "D" Class Grand Aggregate, Ladies Prize, and this competition. This year he won AI Class Grand Aggregate and many Charity Competitions.

CHAMPIONSHIP COMPETITION

The next Championship competition will take place, probably in October. This event also will be very interesting as it is with any Government Rifles. Last year the Americans were very successful.

SECOND STAGE

The second stage was fired off Sunday afternoon at 300 and 600 yards. The weather conditions were good and some excellent scores were registered. At 300 yards Ito was top with 48 out of 50 followed by Noisshiki with 47, Reeves 46, Iijima and Hoh with 44 each. Adding this score with those of Saturdays Ito still leads in the aggregate.

At 600 yards Hodges scored 47 followed by Blatchford, Snape and Noisshiki with 45 each. Noisshiki was top at this stage with 92 pts.

Adding the total of this stage with those of the first stage, Noisshiki won the second stage. Ito who was leading yesterday also had the same score but lost to Noisshiki in the count out.

Suggest New Soccer Rules

The international board of Great Britain, which governs the soccer football code, recently considered a proposition by Scotland that no player can be offside unless within twenty-five yards of the opposing goal. There was also a suggestion that no player can be offside at a free kick or a throw-in. These are radical projects and the board's rulings will be interesting even though it seems America will not follow the lead of Great Britain in withdrawing from the international federation.

WHAT WOMAN NEEDS
above all things are Health and Happiness. These are the true Woman's Rights! Every woman is entitled to them. Dame Nature intended her daughters to be healthy in body and happy in mind. Any woman conscious of pain and trouble which she feels might be removed will be well advised to make careful enquiry as to the cause. If it is found—as indeed is frequently the case—that a disordered digestion is giving rise to ill-health and the consequent depression of spirits, medicine of the right sort will doubtless soon set matters right. But it must be of the right sort. Beecham's Pills are to be strongly recommended for woman's needs. They may be taken with perfect confidence for derangements of the digestive organs, including such unpleasant ailments as sick-headache, biliousness, flatulence, constipation and the insatiate and worries often incidental to her sex. Lady Astor Replies To Vicious Attack

New York, July 10.—Lady Astor, M.P., speaking at the annual meeting of the Unionist Association at Plymouth, yesterday, said: I have waited for this meeting to deal with charges made in a paper called John Bull, which, if true, would affect my position as your representative.

No one likes discussing their private life in public. But I have nothing to hide from you in mine, and I have nothing to be ashamed of in my conduct in Parliament. However unpleasant it is to deal with, the period of great unhappiness I went through 17 years ago, I prefer to tell you all about it.

At the beginning of May the streets of London and of the provinces were flooded with placards in large type on which appeared the words, "Lady Astor's Divorce," and nothing else. I know that the view taken by many people at the time was that these words referred to impending divorce proceedings between myself and my husband. By now the public know that this was not the case, and I only refer to the incident as an example of the type of method employed by the paper which attacked me.

I was charged in the article with collusive conduct in regard to a divorce case in which, in the year 1903, I was the petitioner, and with insincerity and hypocrisy. In particular it was said of me that while in the House of Commons I urged that desertion should not be made a ground for divorce I tried to obtain my own divorce on that very ground. This statement is absolutely false. The ground of my divorce was adultery on the part of my husband, and adultery alone. There was only one petition; there was none claiming divorce on the ground of desertion.

For my part I preferred a separation, and for a time my husband and I lived apart, I having the custody of the child. This separation without divorce might have provided a permanent method of dealing with my unhappy marriage, and this is what I desired. Subsequently my husband's conduct became so open that on the advice of my father I was left with no alternative but to take proceedings for a divorce on the ground of adultery, and this I did.

This is the history of these painful occurrences, which is all that requires to be told. There was from first to last no collusion of any sort in the course of the case. To you I may say that I know you will believe, and what the counsel of my former husband will testify to be true—that all through these wretched family difficulties I did not want a divorce at all, and did not believe in or intend to take proceedings for divorce, on the ground of desertion. Adultery was the ground for divorce in which I believed, and when proceedings became inevitable these were the principles on which I acted.

I have told you fully of the sorrows of my early life. You now have the facts. I do not propose dealing with the matter again.

Mumm's Huge Stock Of Wine To Be Sold

Paris, July 13.—Eight million bottles of champagne will be among the items on the lists of commodities to be placed on sale July 28, when the sequestered property of Baron Walter de Mumm will be auctioned off. This property was seized in 1915, subsequent to the Baron's resumption of German citizenship when the war began.

The number of bottles in the Baron's cellars near Rheims, greatly diminished during the war. When General Ludenorf was making his furious drives toward Rheims, the wine cellars were used as shelters for the troops, and the men were given almost priceless wine with their meals.

RING-WATCHES THE LATEST

Berlin, (by mail.)—It is no longer necessary to give a twist of the wrist to ascertain the time. In fact, it is now the mode to flip the finger since the advent of the ring-watch. Smart Unter den Linden jewelry stores are exhibiting platinum, diamond set rings which at first glance appear to be merely rings, but which on closer examination prove to have a small watch beneath the diamond-cover of the ring.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—
(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filing with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

The League Of Nations Issue

WE have received the following interesting letter from a reader:

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: Perusal of recent issue of THE CHINA PRESS gives one the distinct impression that although you try to be quite non-partisan in your attitude toward the present precidential campaign you have leanings toward the millionaire candidate of the Democratic Party. Having recently arrived from the States, I beg to enclose herewith a clipping which expresses the present sentiment of the thinking voters in the east today. I would appreciate your reprinting all or the first part of this very excellent editorial as it expresses quite succinctly the views of the writer, and many business men at home.

No one in America is impressed with the ability of either Cox or Harding but most of us would like to get a say in the running of our government once again, after the past eight years of "single track minds." We may owe a duty to Europe but why not think a little of our own problems first? We have enough of them. Sincerely,

"A Wilsonian in 1916."

THE CHINA PRESS ordinarily refrains from taking sides in American political controversies but the paramount issue in the present campaign, that of the League of Nations, is international in its every aspect and therefore Americans abroad, who are in a position to know something about how their fortunes are to be affected by the forthcoming decision of their countrymen at home, are in duty bound to study the problem and to make known the results of their study.

THE CHINA PRESS, as its readers are aware, stands for the League of Nations, with or without reservations. The American people also favor the League of Nations, as they have shown in every poll that has been taken. Both the Republican and Democratic parties favored the League up to the moment that the Great Chicago Compromise was made by the Republicans, whereby they sidetracked Senator Johnson and swallowed his platform.

All the leading Republican candidates for the presidential nomination with the one exception of Johnson were for the League, and all the Democratic candidates were likewise for it. But as a result of the Chicago Compromise the country has been split on the issue, and its main point, the bringing of peace and the preservation of peace to the world, is becoming obscured.

Gov. Cox, the Democratic candidate, declares that millions are being spent to beat him and to beat the League of Nations and the Republicans reply with a charge that Great Britain is sending large sums of money to her Ambassador Sir Auckland Geddes, to be used in support of Gov. Cox and the League. Thus, with charge and counter-charge, the main object of the League, may be easily lost to sight.

Yet when one views the confusion and chaos in Europe, amounting practically to a state of social, industrial and commercial collapse, the conclusion is forced that only by the aid of a real League of Nations actively supported by the United States, will restoration and recovery be made possible. And this being so, the duty of the United States to join the League becomes imperative.

The situation is complicated by the Polish aggression and by the Irish, Italian and Turkish questions, and even more by the problem of Bolshevism. With the United States, Germany and Russia in the League however, peace could be restored to the world, which could then start on the long and rocky path of recovery. Experiences since November 11, 1918 do not indicate that reconstruction can be achieved otherwise.

The editorial from the New York Journal of Commerce, which our correspondent inclosed, will be published in tomorrow's issue on this page.

LINES FROM LETTERS

Dear Domino: I wrote to a man in New York some time ago, trying to start a symposium or something on that timely topic "Does Prohibition Prohibit?" "Is New York really dry?" I queried. "Dry?" he sighed back "We have to pin our postage stamps on!"

Since you have introduced the subject of mortuary verse into the colyum I must reminisce a bit. I came from Boston (as fast as I could) and while there had a chance to see the pathetic wail of the short-lived infant who lamented per tombstone

"Since I was so shortly done for I wonder what I was begun for"

Won't some reader give us the whole of this gem?

There is another Boston story, relating to the traditional spinster of culture, who on her walks in the suburbs discovered a milestone stating "1 M from Boston." Her short-sighted, spectacled eyes saw that block as a gravestone and read the inscription thus: "I'm from Boston." "I'm from Boston'" she mused. "How simple! How sufficient!"

Most of us remember that old friend who buried his first wife beneath a massive boulder bearing the inscription "The light of my life has gone out." Later, after remarrying he had these words added: "But I have struck another match."

And here is poetry for you!

"Here lies the body of Reuben Ground
Lost at sea and never found."

Mr. L. Hind thus laments:

"And am she dead and am she gone
And did she leave I all alone.
O Cruel Fate, you is unkind
To take she fore and Levi Hind."

Or—

Thomas Jones, despatches state,
By curiosity goaded
Peered down the muzzle of his gun
To see if it was loaded.
IT WAS

Yours to the finish,
WOON B. RYTER.

THE AUTOMOBILITY CLUB GROWS

The Automobility Club is gaining members rapidly and so keen are they that not only will they abide by the rules already set forth out forsooth they e'en would add thereto and A.G.L. writes me in high glee heartily agreeing with the idea and submitting the following regulations for approval:

1.—Pedestrians crossing streets at night shall wear a white light in front and a red light in the rear.

2.—Before turning to the right or left they shall give three short blasts on a horn at least three inches in diameter.

3.—When an inexperienced automobile driver is made nervous by a pedestrian, he shall indicate the same, and the pedestrian shall hide behind a tree until the automobile has passed.

4.—Pedestrians shall not carry in their pockets any sharp instrument which may cut automobile tires.

5.—In dodging automobiles, pedestrians shall not run more than seven miles an hour.

6.—Pedestrians must register at the beginning of each year and pay a license fee of $5 for the privilege of living. There shall be no rebate if they do not live the entire year.

7.—Each pedestrian before receiving his license to walk upon the streets must demonstrate before an examining board his skill in dodging, leaping, crawling and extricating himself from machinery.

8.—Pedestrians will be held responsible for all damages done to automobiles or their occupants by collision.

Cox The Governor As Revealed In Official Records

Democratic Candidate's Messages, Vetoes And Public Speeches Before Nomination Reveal An Able Administrator And Guardian Of Ohio Treasury—His Championship Of Progressive Measures

(New York Times)

James M. Cox—Governor!

So many campaign pictures have been painted of the affable, handshaking, good-looking "Jimmy" Cox that the sterner qualities of the Democratic candidate for President of the United States have been somewhat obscured. He has been made pleasant to take for the voter. He has been sugar coated for political consumption. But beneath this agreeable veneer there is an executive of parts, as may be seen from his official record during three terms in managing the third richest State in the Union. "Jimmy" Cox of the attractive and persuasive personality proved himself as Governor an alert business man, a level-headed and vigilant administrator, a thoughtful observer of republican institution and a courageous guardian of the public treasury.

State documents, messages, proclamations and public addresses depict accurately the gubernatorial Cox rather than the campaigner who, when a candidate for Congress, rolled up the biggest majority ever given to a candidate in the Dayton district. They reveal his attitude on practically every public question of the day, from the League of Nations, industrial strife and the high cost of living to the jury system, public schools and prison reform. Even a cursory examination of the record shows, too, that the Governor knows how to say "No." Consider, for example, some typical instances of his exercise of the veto power.

EXERCISE OF THE VETO

The Assembly passed a bill relieving persons convicted of certain election offenses from sentences already imposed. "Is this not an attempted exercise of the power of pardon by the General Assembly?" Governor Cox demanded.

. . . "If this power existed every member of the Assembly would each session be besieged by the friends and relatives of convicts from his county to an extent that for weeks, and perhaps months, would preclude the transaction of any other business. It would become an issue in the matter of election of members of the Assembly, and, all in all, release more evils than Pandora's box contained." And he disapproved the measure.

Then there was a bill to give County Commissioners the right to revoke the franchise of any street or interurban railway where the grant had been made without time limitations and had run more than twenty years. Most interurban franchises in the State were "perpetual," and Governor Cox expressed fear lest the bill would confer such power on public officials as to lead to grave abuses.

"There is a vast difference," he observed, "between regulation and confiscation, and at no time in our history has it been more necessary to maintain the dividing line. The indeterminate franchise doubtless establishes a correct principle and will work to far better results in this State, both for the public and legitimate utility companies, but it is so far reaching in its consequences that it should not be established without prudent safeguards. It is one of the great problems of the near future, and when it is taken up, the fundamental justice underlying the plain must not be negatived by withholding protection from the public and the investor. Only along the line of self-evident fairness can progress be made in government. This bill is singularly offensive to that principle, to say nothing of the unconstitutional placement of power in the Commissioners, and it is therefore filed with the Secretary of State without approval."

In May, 1913, early in the Governor's term of office, we find him vetoing a bill allowing claims for property damage along the Ohio and Erie Canal. "The Attorney General's Department," he said, "is without any information, I am advised, as to whether these claims have ever been adjudicated through a commission, as provided by law." And he was almost as emphatic about appropriations of $750 each in salary to four officials. "There seems to be ample ground," he observed dryly, "for the belief that there has been an unusual prolongation of this work, and disapproval of the items is based upon this thought." In another case he struck an interest charge out of an appropriation bill. "It is not the practice of the State to pay interest," he said. He refused to allow the Assembly to give $20,000 for a bridge near the Girls' Industrial Home, because "it is not the function of the State to assume any part of local expense."

REBUKING THE LEGISLATURE

These examples will show the Governor's attention to the interests of the public funds. But sometimes he sent back a measure with a laconic rebuke. "The purpose of the bill is to be commended," he said of an effort to regulate motor traffic. "Its form . . . is very bad." He found a primary election measure of doubtful legality and sent it back with the caution: "The bill is legislative compliance with a mandatory amendment to the Constitution and of such importance that there ought not be the slightest question about its legality." He urged that a similar bill be passed in its stead. Another measure he characterised as "crudely drawn and unwise," and another "replete with error." But in spite of his outspoken opinion of legislative clumsiness or slovenliness he seemed to get along well with the Assembly. What he wanted done the Assembly did.

On occasion the Governor can be sarcastic. The bill to appropriate $7,500 toward a civil war monument in Auglaize County was returned with this observation:

"The universal practice has been in the counties of Ohio that the subdivisions themselves erect these testimonials of public appreciation. No request for State aid has been made, and the project carried by this act would be a gratuitous insult to the citizenship of that county. The inference from history would be that Auglaize County stood out conspicuously alone as the community which procured State aid for the purpose of building a monument to her heroic dead."

Two vetoes of bills affecting the jury system will serve to complete this sketch of Governor Cox's method. One proposed to reduce the number of Grand Jurors from fifteen to twelve and to make the vote of nine members sufficient for indictment. "The ends of justice," said the Governor, "are rarely defeated under the existing order. If it has been difficult to procure indictments, the public knows nothing about it. There is no demand for this change. It is not hard to indict a guilty person. It ought to be difficult to indict any one when the element of doubt is present."

The other bill provided increased pay for jurors, and evoked from the Governor a touch of irony. "The spirit of our Government," he said, "contemplates patriotic service by citizens in the matter of adjusting disputed matters in the courts. . . . Those who are able financially to make the sacrifice in time would not be interested in additional compensation. From the other view, we cannot but gain the idea that those who have probably sought the opportunity to serve as jurors in the past might, with the encouragement of added pay, become more or less professional in their labors."

When Cox first ran for Governor, in 1912, it was on a platform promising a State budget and many progressive legislative changes. He was elected, served the two-year term, was defeated in 1914, re-elected in 1916 and again in 1918. His present term expires next January. Although he has championed many forward-looking measures in Ohio, his outstanding achievements probably are the budget system, prison reform and a workmen's compensation act which reduced litigation from 50,000 cases in 1912 to fifty in 1919. As a result of the budget system and an improved method of valuation for taxation he called a special session of the General Assembly on Junly 20, 1914, to reduce the tax rate, and it was set at the lowest figure in Ohio's history.

ON CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Before quoting from the record on these points, it may be as well to digress long enough to show from the record what Governor Cox thinks of campaign expenses, industrial disputes and one or two other questions of vital interest in the present campaign. In his legislative message of Jan. 9, 1917, he said:

"Let me lay particular emphasis on the necessity of safeguarding the suffrage thought of the State from the dangers of corrupt influences: The sums of money expended for so-called political purposes are assuming such magnitude as to cause seemingly well-founded alarm, if not to justify the belief that the legitimate purpose of campaigning is being exceeded. Unfettered by law, this tendency might result in the waters of our free institutions being poisoned at their very base. Reduced to simple terms, the object of a campaign is to inform the voters on every subject that legitimately and germanely joins to the issues and the candidates. Any step beyond this, and any project opposed to it in motive, cannot but be regarded as dangerous.

"Human frailties should not be played upon by vast treasures of money advanced my men or movements whose huge disbursements can hardly be looked upon as of patriotic inspiration. It is not necessary to expend large amounts of money for the promotion of a worthy cause, and, inversely, any cause or candidacy having behind it unprecedented financial support is likely to be regarded with suspicion.

"It may, through legislation, be necessary to restrain irresponsible organisations whose existence and activities are born of a hidden design, conceived by some interest afraid to operate in the open. I recommend that a legislative committee of investigation be appointed with the power to employ counsel and the authority to summon persons and papers and to swear witnesses in order that it might be known just what organisations have been entering into campaign activities, and how much money they expended and collected—also the names of the contributors. This should extend also to candidates. The facts as adduced will then be a safe guide as to the necessity of strengthening the Corrupt Practices act, or more rigorously enforcing existing law, or both."

At the Jackson Day dinner in Washington last January Governor Cox again gave unequivocal expression to his stand on this question.

"As the ranks form for the contest near at hand," he said "there are manifestations which must be regarded as danger signs. The old guard, so-called, is in control of the party which it well-nigh wrecked by its greed. With little understanding of the principles of a democracy in Government, they believe our institutions are safe only in the hands of a class, and once custody is procured affairs are so shaped as to make Government the agent of its self-anointed saviors. No man who gives unprejudiced view to present conditions will in conscience deny that the councils of the Republican Party are not in reactionary hands nor will he challenge the charge now made, with a full understanding not only of the awful indictment but the facts justifying it, that the dollar and the bayonet are the transcendent things in the reactionary thought of the nation.

"The work of creating the most stupendous fund ever known for campaign purposes is under way. It is bruited about, and not denied, that the Ohio quota is to be $500,000. The Presidency is to be bought and the Congress as well. And then force, if necessary, is to supplement sordid and selfish policy.

"One is staggered by the dangerous philosophy which has possessed the minds of some men, but it easily enables us to read the signs of the times."

In a manifesto to Mayors and Sheriffs regarding their strike duties last October, Governor Cox departed from all Ohio precedent and gave concrete expression to his views instead of dealing in generalities. Part of the statement follows:

"Officers of companies whose manufacturing plants are closed by strike or other cause have expressed to me the intention to resume operations. At the same time they have asked for protection. Inquiry develops this fact —that some employers believe it is the duty of government to transport their employes into and out of the plants in question. This is not a function of government. Throughout the years, the policy has been not to make use of soldiers or policemen to man street cars, for instance, nor to in any way make of them the instruments to bring a strike to an end. If either state or local officers provided safe conveyance of workmen into or out of a manufacturing institution, then government would be making of itself the agent of one of the parties to the dispute. If, however, the plant resumes, and disorder of any sort ensues as the result of employes going into or out of the factory, then that becomes an affair of governmental concern and the Mayor of the municipality or the Sheriff of the county, as location within or without the municipality largely determines, must suppress violence and arrest those who violate the laws. I shall exact this from all local officers.

"Picketing, as we understand it, is neither prohibited by law nor condemned by public sentiment, but it must go no further than moral persuasion. Organised society cannot continue without government, and government will not live unless the laws are respected. They not only express what experience has taught us, but they are the official mandate of the will of the majority, and after all, that is a fundamental principle in a republic.

"All officers must act with care. It will be found that trouble can often be avoided by an open, frank and firm contact of public officers with both the representatives of the employers and employes. No call that I have ever made upon either side of those controversies has ever gone unheeded.

"We are in the midst of unprecedented conditions, but if we devote ourselves to the single thought of making government the agency of justice and the instrument of bringing swift punishment to those who violate the laws of this commwealth, we will pass through the storm safely.

"No man must be permitted to define the rules of his individual conduct. The law is supreme. I shall expect its enforcement by local officers. When they have rendered their utmost effort and failed to meet conditions, then the State will act promptly."

ON INDUSTRIAL STRIFE

A further expression of the Governor's views on industrial strife was given in an address to the National Brick Manufacturing Association at Columbus. The first need, he said, was to recognise that "workmen are not machinery, but are a part of humanity," and continued:

"A second thing most necessary to impress upon the tens and hundreds of thousands of aliens that come to this land (in many instances brought as a deliberate industrial design) that this is America; that our ideals are not the mere passing fancy of today, but that they were given to us by our fathers; that they have been sufficient to carry us through the storms of time, and that now aliens cannot conflict with our laws and traditions and prescribe their own individual rules of conduct. We want them to know that this is a country of one and only one flag. And we mean to make it a country of one language. In industrial strife but one conversation can live if public opinion so rules.

"Public opinion has ruled this republic since it began; it does now and always will so long as our institutions endure. But in Ohio at least we find persons by tens of thousands not influenced by public opinion because they do not speak our language, they do not read our papers, they know not what we talk about, they do not understand as to how we view their performances. Mischievous, dangerous, murderous men of revolutionary tendencies make their way among those foreigners preaching to them the gospel that the men who own the industries should yield them and all they made therefrom to the working people who helped them to achieve; that it is theirs by right, and that if they continue to strike a social revolution is here and the property will be divided.

"I know you are probably perplexed with the thought as to what industrial conditions are coming to.

"We have two very radical movements. Bolshevism is one, and yet another movement equally as dangerous, as I see it, is the radicalism of reaction. One radical movement says we will not wait for things to work out, we will destroy the institutions of government. That is the philosophy which prompts a man to tear up his potato vines in order to kill his potato bugs. The reactionary radical says we will make no change.

"The American people must subscribe to the doctrine of evolution, making the Government a Government of and for the people in fact as well as in name or prepare to merit a revolt.

"If we keep the fires of evolution burning we will never have revolution in this country.

"In recent years in this State we had the Judges denbunced from every street corner. The courts had fallen from the confidence of the people because our old Constitution was made in stage coach days, and there was great industrial injustice growing out of the extension of industrial life.

"The charter was changed, the laws were changed and amended, and the recall of the judiciary has not been mentioned in this State in the last ten years. Evolution therefore was the remedy for revolution."

In a paragraph Governor Cox once compactly expressed sympathy with the causes behind Bolshevism, condemned its manifestation and suggested the remedy.

"The dollar is an evidence of frugality and thrift—in most instances the reward of virtue," he said in his message of January, 1919, "but if we look upon it with too intensive thought, the soul will atrophy. I have no patience with the irresponsible conduct of the Bolshevist leader, nor can we regard except with disfavor the ranting of those who seek to blame society for their individual failure. A new day in the world has come, but it is freighted with new responsibilities. Across the far reaches we can hear the muttering protest of the mass overseas. The method of manifestation we condemn, but the cause of discontent we must recognise. The seed of Bolshevism will not grow in America if from our soil we extract the elements necessary to its life. Government is the surest guarantee of orderliness in society, but it must note the heart-beats and views and treat conditions as the Almighty tells us we should."

SHANGHAI

The Electric Shoes — By J. MacRichard

TRANSLATED BY WILLIAM L. McPHERSON

The Brussels-Paris express was entering the Compiegne station, the last stop before reaching Paris.

It was 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Two passengers were seated in one of the first-class compartments —a gentleman of forty, who had got on at Tergnier, and your humble servant.

We had exchanged some commonplace remarks. My companion spoke with an English accent.

Scarcely had the train stopped when one of the doors was opened violently. A gust of wind blew in. My companion made a wry face. But the door remained open, held by some one on the outside.

This impolite person was a young man, with a military air. We supposed, at least, that he belonged to the army, since he had a cavalry sword strapped to his valise.

The gentleman opposite me arose and slammed the door.

The officer opened it again. Try as my companion could, he wasn't able to force it shut.

"How ill-bred!" he growled, as he returned to his seat.

We heard an oath outside. The valise was pitched into the compartment and the owner followed it.

He was just in time.

The engine whistle blew. The guard locked the door and the train got under way.

There was a tense silence, presaging a violent outburst, as the newcomer lifted his bag into the rack.

I don't know what was passing in the gentleman's mind. But looking at his placid figure one would have thought that he was not in the least affected by the young officer's nervous movements and bellicose attitude.

"It seems to me," said the latter, looking at each of us in turn, "that I heard some one in here use the expression 'ill bred.'"

"That word was used," answered my companion, unhesitatingly.

"To whom was it applied, may I ask?"

"To you."

These last words had hardly been spoken when the officer's hand described a semicircle and struck the gentleman's face. I expected to see the latter spring on the soldier.

He did nothing of the sort.

He made a slight movement with his left foot. It was almost imperceptible. But it produced an effect which made an ineffaceable impression on me. Nobody could describe exactly the transformation which the officer underwent. But the vigorous, aggressive, quarrelsome man of the minute before became suddenly an automaton, without power of resistance, without will.

He was now being subjected to some mysterious torment, affected by some brain disturbance almost as violent as madness. His limbs jerked convulsively; his eyes almost started from their sockets; his teeth chattered; inarticulate sounds escaped from his throat.

I felt sorry for him and got up to aid him. But the English gentleman motioned me away. With a smile on his lips he ordered me to take my seat.

"Don't be disturbed," he said in a friendly voice. "There isn't any danger. His sufferings will stop whenever I want them to stop."

"Mercy!" exclaimed the unfortunate young man, giving the Englishman a supplicating glance.

The latter smiled sardonically.

"Mercy!" the officer repeated. "Mercy!"

"So be it," said the Englishman, at last. "I pardon you. But don't start anything again with me."

The mysterious traveler withdrew the foot which I had seen him press against the officer's a few moments before.

The officer fell back in his seat, put his head between his hands and seemed completely prostrated.

"Was it a dream or was it real?" he murmured.

"It was real enough," said the Englishman. "You will remember Sir John Mextone, I think, as long as you live."

"I certainly shall."

"Well," continued Mextone (as he called himself), "I am going to explain my system to you. Will you come a little closer, my dear sir (addressing me)? It's well worth your while."

Mextone crossed his legs and showed us the tip of one of his shoes.

"You see those two points?" he asked.

"Yes."

"That is where my power comes from. Don't touch them."

"Ah!"

"They are the extremities of an electric current, fed by a battery concealed in the heel. The shocks which this gentleman felt were merely discharges produced by a connecting of two poles, through his body. It is the greatest invention of our age, worth all of Edison's. I have with me two similar pairs of shoes—in this package. One was made for the King of the Belgians and one for the King of Italy."

So our companion was only a common commercial traveler!

But common isn't the right word. As we had just seen, he carried on his trade with the adroitness of an artist.

"What do you charge for those shoes?" I asked, still marveling at the demonstration he had given us.

"Two hundred francs. That's hardly anything."

"It's cheap enough," said the officer "But why couldn't I buy a pair ahead of the King of the Belgians?"

"And why couldn't I buy a pair," I said, "ahead of the King of Italy?"

"Well, I don't see why you can't," replied Sir John Mextone, "on condition, of course, that you don't make any use of them for several days. I want to have a chance to offer these crowned heads a real novelty."

When we arrived in Paris the officer and I each possessed a pair of electric shoes. We took leave of Sir John Mextone.

I was walking home with my precious package under my arm when a carriage passed me in the Rue Varnier and I heard voices which seemed familiar. I recognised the officer and the Englishman. They were sitting close together and laughing boisterously.

That aroused my suspicions. At my hotel I put on the pair of shoes intended for the King of Italy and hurried down to the dinner table. I touched several people with my toe. But none of them showed any signs of electric shock. They merely seemed annoyed at my awkwardness. I had to admit to myself that my famous shoes were no more electric than any other shoes. I had been the victim of a comedy played by two clever conspirators.

My first impulse was to make a complaint to the police. But since the story would certainly have raised a laugh at my expense, I thought it wiser to say nothing.

On The Roof of the World

The breeze on the roof of the World affects the fur of the Tibetan Fox. The result is long heavy lustrous Fur. The locality here in some places more than 15,000 feet above the level of the sea, produces fox coats of long dense downy fur and over-hair of exquisite fineness and beauty, and in instances of great value. Only the prime skins are selected for you and no skin is sent out less than 45 inches in length, pelt and tail. You can have one of these Tibetan Fox skins by sending a Chinese Post Office Money order for $25 to MR. ELLY WIDLER, TA TSING-LU, SZECHWAN PROVINCE, and he will immediately mail you one of these specially selected Tibetan For Skins.

In Case Of Apoplexy

BY BRICE BELDEN, M. D.

Apoplexy generally occurs in persons well along in years, though it is sometimes encountered in young people. All causes that lead to degeneration of the blood vessels, such as alcoholism, Bright's disease, gout and rheumatism predispose to it.

The hemorrhage that occurs in apoplexy is usually within the brain-mass, rather than on the surface. It varies from a mere oozing to actual flooding. At first the clot that forms is dark and soft; later it loses its color, shrinks and is finally absorbed. A scar may remain to mark the site of the hemorrhage.

An attack may be initiated by headache, dizziness, disturbed sleep, roaring in the ears, vomiting or a sense of numbness or weakness on the side that is to be affected. But in most cases the patient falls suddenly unconscious without previous warning.

The breathing is noisy and irregular, the muscles are laxed, the eyes and face are congested, and the pupils do not respond to light and may be uneven; the pulse is full and slow, one cheek flaps more than the other, and the head and eyes are likely to be turned toward the side of the hemorrhage, the paralysed arm drops lifeless after being raised.

In cases that recover, consciousness is usually restored in from twelve to forty-eight hours. The arm and leg opposite the side of the hemorrhage remain paralysed. If the clot has been small, the paralysis may completely disappear. More frequently, recovery is only partial. The power of the facial muscles is usually restored entirely and the leg improves more than the arm. If the hemorrhage has been on the left side of the brain speech suffers more or less (the speech center being on that side). The attack may be followed by impairment of memory and loss of emotional control.

Disturb the patient as little as possible until the arrival of a physician. Elevate the head and shoulders and apply ice to the head and heat to the feet. Also loosen the clothing about the throat.

Pope Is Posing To An American

Sculptor H. C. Andersen Has Made Medallion Head And Marble Bust

Rome, June 20.—Pope Benedict XV. for the first time is posing for an American artist, Hendriek Christian Andersen, who has lived in Rome twenty-five years. Mr. Andersen has made a pen-and-ink drawing, a medallion head of the Pontiff and a marble bust, all pronounced excellent likenesses. The bust and medallion are to be reproduced and shown in America.

During the poses, the artist said the Pope talked of art and artists, and surprised Mr. Andersen with his up-to-date knowledge of those subjects.

Mr. Andersen is known as a dreamer and of great modesty regarding his work. One of his notable successes was a bust of Edward Ginn, American publisher finished early in 1914.

The peculiar type of man he is was indicated in that year by his announcing a scheme for building an ideal city, with a "tower of progress" 1,000 feet high as a central feature. He wanted a city absolutely perfect when completed. Its streets were to be broad, its transportation lines, system of roads, everything to be so interrelated that all possible human convenience would be catered to. It was to be free from slums and its houses so little as to give the maximum of light and air.

He had given nine years of study and work to the idea, calling in experts in architecture, in landscape and of health from the civilised world to make his plans ideal. He picked half a dozen spots on the globe as suitable for such a city, one being on the Jersey coast, extending seaward from the neighborhood of Lakewood. The city was to be a great intellectual center and an international "peace" capital.

The idea attracted attention, but the war shattered his dream.

"AS SURE AS THERE IS A GOD IN HEAVEN, THEY SHALL ALL PAY FOR THIS!"

Impressively, dramatically, almost prayerfully, the threat of the shipowner rang out in bell-like tones as he told his wife of the diabolical manner in which his partner and associates had "framed" him for their "fake insurance" crime—And after twelve years at "hard labor" in the "pen" John Benton came forth as an avenging Nemesis.
